most of the public attention has been on cosmetic surgery beautifying what women see between their legs, medication can often make the difference between completing or not completing drug treatment programs.